Warsaw, March 17, N. S. Count Brahiski and the Commissaries sent to the Palatin of Kiovy, arrived here on Monday last; they confirm that every thing is settled with him and his Army, and that he is now Regimentary of King Augustus, with Promise of being made Great General at the first Dyet; the Number of Troops that remained under his Command are in all about 5000, and he only waits Orders from this Court how to dispose of them. In Consideration of the Palatin of Cracow's having quitted his Pretentions to the great Generalship, he has obtained a Pension to the Amount of 60,000 Dollars a Year. By the last Accounts from the Palatin of Volhinia, though he pretended being inclined to make his Peace with this Court, and had assured the Palatin of Kiovy that he would conform to whatever Resolutions he took, he is march'd with his Division to join M. Poccey in Lithuania. We have News of the Palatin of Lublin's having attack'd a small Garrison of 300 Men the Saxons had at Karga, very near the Frontiers of Silesia, and the second Day the Saxons wanting Powder, capitulated to be sent to Posen, having had only one Man killed and one wounded.

Berlin, March 26, N. S. We have received Advices, that the Poles are retired from Zeulichau, Oblat, and Crossen, but whither these Advices do not mention. The King of Prussia designed to remove from hence to Potzdam on Thursday last, but was prevented by Accounts of the unhealthy Situation of the Place, several of the tall Grenadiers having lately died there of a malignant Fever. The Hereditary Prince of Brunswick came hither on Thursday last, in order to fetch the Princess his Consort.
